WANT BUSTER + PUNCH STYLE TO-GO?

INTRODUCING TAKEOUT – THE FIRST PORTABLE TABLE LIGHT FROM BUSTER + PUNCH

Takeout is the first portable table light from London's Buster + Punch – a design that takes the brand's recognisable aesthetic beyond the home.

Based on Buster + Punch's award-winning Buster Bulb, Takeout reimagines its patented light pipe in a new format, held beneath a secondary LED light canopy. An elegant cross-knurled solid metal structure holds the light pipe, which is wrapped in a clear safety glass. The design means that the central light pipe glows warmly like a candle, while the canopy shines a more functional light on the table or ground beneath. The entire piece has a similar weight and diameter to a large to-go coffee cup, Takeout by name and nature.

In terms of technology, Takeout utilises a rechargeable battery offering approximately 14 hours of use at its brightest setting. Operation is via a discreet tap-sensitive solid metal pad at the top of the light, which turns it on or off and cycles through three dim settings. The light is also IP65 wet-rated, making it suitable for both indoor and outdoor use.

In keeping with Buster + Punch's ethos of designing objects that fit seamlessly into its typology, Takeout features its signature cross-knurled pattern and expanses of hand-polished solid metal. It's a distinctive design that fans of the brand's attitude and expression can grab + go, levelling up activities like alfresco dining, park hangs, and beach grills.

Restaurants are another application where portable lamps really enhance the ambience. Environments like these have embraced the soft glow of Buster + Punch's lighting since the very beginning, and the ability to have one as a table's centrepiece without needing to run cables is a godsend.

Wherever it goes, the bottom line is this: Treat yourself to a Takeout – you've earned it.
